Section A: Research Methods

*For Examiner's
Use*

- 1 Sociologists who wish to collect qualitative data will use unstructured interviews and observational studies. Qualitative research methods are seen as having high validity. However, qualitative research methods have a number of limitations. For example, the problem of interviewer bias is likely to occur with unstructured interviews. Observational studies may also have a number of problems such as the difficulty in using these studies to make generalisations.

Positivist sociologists favour a scientific approach to research. They use quantitative methods to collect statistical data. Quantitative research methods are high in reliability. Sometimes sociologists use a mix of quantitative and qualitative research methods as a way of giving their studies greater credibility.
