Joel owns a business that specialises in decorating offices. In 2008 Joel's business carried out a contract to redecorate the offices of Yinvesco. The work took three months to complete. Yinvesco then took a further two months to pay the account and deducted 15% because they said that not all the work had been completed satisfactorily. Joel was very unhappy about this because the contract only had a small profit margin. "I base my price on full costs including overheads and add on 10%" he said. (a) Identify the pricing method used by Joel's business. [2] (b) Explain what is meant by 'a small profit margin'. (c) Explain two reasons why Joel's business might have experienced cash flow problems when carrying out the Yinvesco contract. Reason 1:
