MARK SCHEME for the May/June 2008 question paper

0470 HISTORY

0470/01

Paper 1, maximum raw mark 60

This mark scheme is published as an aid to teachers and candidates, to indicate the requirements of the examination. It shows the basis on which Examiners were instructed to award marks. It does not indicate the details of the discussions that took place at an Examiners' meeting before marking began.

All Examiners are instructed that alternative correct answers and unexpected approaches in candidates' scripts must be given marks that fairly reflect the relevant knowledge and skills demonstrated.

Mark schemes must be read in conjunction with the question papers and the report on the examination.

- CIE will not enter into discussions or correspondence in connection with these mark schemes.

CIE is publishing the mark schemes for the May/June 2008 question papers for most IGCSE, GCE Advanced Level and Advanced Subsidiary Level syllabuses and some Ordinary Level syllabuses.

APPLICATION OF THE MARK SCHEME

1 Use of the Mark Scheme

- 1.1 It is not possible to cover every possible type of response within a levels of response mark scheme and examiners are expected to use their professional judgement at all times in ensuring that responses are placed in the correct levels and given an appropriate mark within that level.
- 1.2 Marking must be positive. Marks must not be deducted for inaccurate or irrelevant answers. Half-marks must not be used.
- 1.3 The full range of marks should be used. Do not be afraid to award full marks or no marks. Failure to do this will seriously affect the distribution of marks. Be prepared to reward candidates who show any level of understanding. The mark scheme starts from basic acceptable response.
- 1.4 Be consistent from script to script and from batch to batch.
- 1.5 Indicate that all answers have been seen.
- 1.6 Do not transfer marks from one part of a question to another.
- 1.7 If a candidate reaches a particular level s/he must be rewarded with a mark within that level. It is not necessary to work through the levels.
- 1.8 Exhaustive lists of possible facts are not given in the mark scheme, as there is often a choice of factual knowledge that candidates may use.
- 1.9 WHERE EXAMPLES OF RESPONSES ARE GIVEN, THESE ARE NOT PRESCRIPTIVE, BUT ARE INTENDED AS A GUIDE.
- 1.10 Where a band of marks is indicated for a level these marks should be used with reference to the development of the answer within that level.

2 Marking

- 2.1 All marking should be in red.
- 2.2 The level, and mark awarded for each part question, MUST be shown clearly in the margin of the script towards the end of an answer, e.g. L3/8.
- 2.3 At the end of each question the total mark achieved by the candidate for that question MUST be indicated in a circle.
- 2.4 The total mark for each question should be transferred to the front page of the script. The marks for the three questions should be totalled and indicated. The final total for the script should then be circled.
- 2.6 It is not necessary to tick the body of an answer and examiners should refrain from doing so.
- 2.7 Examiners must indicate, in the body of the response, where a level has been achieved and, where appropriate, marks are gained.

3 Assessment Objectives

- 3.1 The Assessment Objectives being tested in each part of a question are:
 - (a) recall, description
 - (b) recall, explanation
 - (c) recall, explanation and analysis.

France was modernised – up to date farming methods, railways built and educational standards improved.'

'At first the revolution in Hungary looked as though it would be a success but the Magyar nationalists fought the Croat nationalists instead of joining together to win their independence from Austria. As a result the revolution led by Louis Kossuth was brutally suppressed.'

Longer term the brief period of Magyar rule was not in vain. By 1867 Magyar was the official language of Hungary, the Diet had regained much of its old importance and the March Laws were accepted. Hungary was now an equal partner with Austria.

'The liberals and nationalists wanted Austrians out of Italy for good. Charles Albert did not get the expected support and as a result he was heavily defeated. The Pope was driven from the Holy City. Charles Albert was defeated again and abdicated and Venice captured by Austria.'

'The troops from different areas of Prussia had fought alongside the North German Confederation and after their successes had agreed to join other German states in a new federation.'

'Following the attempt to make Schleswig part of Denmark Bismarck joined with Austria in sending a combined army. Schleswig-Holstein was handed over to be ruled jointly by Austria and Prussia but they could not agree and the territories were split. Some think Bismarck deliberately agreed so that it would be easier to pick a quarrel with Austria.'

'Whilst Molke and the other generals were mobilising their forces, Bismarck came to an agreement with Italy which would result in Italy attacking Austria and keeping a large part of the Austrian army pinned down in the event of war between Austria and Prussia. He got a promise of French neutrality and relied on Russian and British neutrality. With this control he picked a war with Austria.'

'Austria was defeated within 16 days. He cleverly agreed an acceptable and lenient peace to ensure no lasting bitterness. With increased territory he was acclaimed a hero in Prussia as those wanting unification were delighted with the Treaty of Prague.'

The German states joined with the North German Confederation in a new federation under the leadership of Prussia. Unification had been achieved.'

'The Missouri Compromise over whether it should be or not be a slave state caused much argument. In the end it was admitted as a slave state but a dividing line between north and south was established.'
'A principle of self-determination was allowed in relation to Kansas and Nebraska. This resulted in violence and caused a split in the main parties with the formation of the Republican Party dedicated to resist the expansion of slavery.'
'The Dred Scott decision infuriated the abolitionists and hardened the attitude of many northerners against the south. It also strengthened the new Republican Party.'

The radicals were against, as they wanted a harsh settlement through confiscation of land. They believed the ex-slaves should have the same rights (vote) as white Americans. They feared a Democratic Party triumph. This caused the Wade-Davis Bill which Lincoln tried to veto but failed.'
 'The Union victory preserved the Union but the South was treated with 'malice' and the wounds remained open well into the twentieth century.'
 'Johnson's policy was one of reconciliation. The Southern states were allowed to elect legislatures and send senators and representatives to Washington. But Congress was controlled by hardliners, radical Republicans who wanted to punish the South.'
 'The hardliners prevented Confederate representatives from taking their seats. This gave them a huge majority and they were able to pass laws they saw fit.'
 'The Basic Reconstruction Act of 1867 allowed military governors to form governments elected by universal suffrage but Confederate leaders were disqualified from voting and old Confederate politicians could not stand for office.'
 'Carpet-baggers and scalawags were able to take control of the state governments in the Deep South and impose their wishes which were often corrupt and spendthrift. This affected the peoples of the South who were trying to restore their towns and plantations to their former prosperity.'
 'Southerners took the law into their own hands through the Ku Klux Klan who intimidated ex-slaves and dealt with the scalawags and carpet baggers.'

Level 3 Explains why [4–7]

e.g. 'The Czechoslovakian Communist Party decided reforms were needed and appointed Dubcek Party Secretary. Dubcek's aims were to improve the standard of living and give the people more freedom and to do this brought in a series of reforms including less state control, free elections and the end of press censorship.'

'Soviet leaders feared that there would be further demands for even more freedom in Czechoslovakia. If granted people in other Eastern European states would make demands. This might destroy the rule of the Communist parties in these countries and in the end Soviet control.'

The USSR feared that Czechoslovakia would ally with Yugoslavia, who had refused to join the Warsaw Pact and Romania and would no longer attend meetings of the Pact.'

'Czechoslovakia was too important to the security of the Soviet Union to allow any change as it was the one country which had borders with both West Germany and the USSR.'

(c) How far were the policies of Gorbachev responsible for the collapse of Soviet control over Eastern Europe? Explain your answer.

Level 1 Unsupported assertions [1]

e.g. 'Yes he was because he was in power.'

Level 2 Identifies reasons [2–3]

e.g. 'The economy of the Soviet Union was failing.'

'He introduced reforms.'

'He made links with the West.'

'Communist countries were no longer dominated.'

'USSR was broken up.'

'He introduced 'perestroika' and 'glasnost'.'

'Solidarity was responsible more than Gorbachev.'

Level 3 Explains agreement OR disagreement [3–5]

Level 4 Explains agreement AND disagreement [5–7]

e.g. 'Gorbachev proposed many changes that the hard-line communists found difficult to accept. He was unpopular because his economic reforms did not work as they expected too much too quickly. Corruption ran too deeply for the changes to happen. His withdrawal of Red Army support for other communist countries resulted in one by one the communist governments coming to an end.'

The role of Gorbachev can be highlighted by:

'Gorbachev proposed that the Soviet economy should be improved by "perestroika" – restructuring, including capitalist practices.'

'There should be more "glasnost" – openness to restoring faith in government and end corruption. People who criticised the government should no longer be persecuted.'

'He proposed a cut back in money spent on the arms race and signed a treaty with the USA.'

'Communist governments in Eastern Europe could no longer expect support from the Red Army.'

The Soviet Union was also in crisis, and needed change, because:

'There was much corruption with many Party members living in luxury whilst the workers were living in poverty.'

'The people no longer had faith in their government as they saw the West getting richer.'

'Industry and agriculture were not efficient and there was the need for expensive imports.'

'Large sums of money were being spent on defence at the expense of many citizens living in poverty. An expensive war was being fought in Afghanistan.'

'The Solidarity movement showed that if people stood together against oppression it was difficult to deal with.'

e.g. 'Because of government actions.'

Level 2 Identifies why [2–4]

e.g. 'The government printed worthless money.'
'The reparations imposed on Germany affected the economy.'
'There was nothing with which to trade.'

Level 3 Explains why [4–7]

e.g. 'The occupation of the Ruhr had disastrous effects. The German government had to print money to pay the strikers' wages. This increased inflation.'
'The situation had come about from 1921. Large quantities of goods were sent to Belgium and France. As a result there were not enough goods in Germany and so prices rose making inflation worse.'
'The Treaty of Versailles said that Germany had to pay reparations. These were later fixed at a very high figure putting an extra burden on the German economy that was being rebuilt after the war.'
'As it had no goods to trade the government simply printed more money. The government and the great industrialists were able to pay off their war debts in worthless money. This set of a chain reaction. Prices and wages rocketed.'

'He negotiated the Dawes Plan which gave a loan of 800 million marks, reduced annual reparations and gave longer to pay.'

'Germany's international position was improved. By the 1925 Locarno Pact Germany's borders were resolved and Germany was admitted to the League of Nations in 1926.'

'The greater freedom of the republic encouraged a cultural revival through artists, writers, architects and musicians.'

'Some argued that the new ideas of culture and art were unpatriotic and they wanted more traditional values. They argued that the new phase meant Germany was going into moral decline.'

'To a great extent, Germany's recovery after 1923 was an illusion. The economic recovery depended on loans, while some sectors, such as agriculture, were in serious trouble.'

'Political stability was wafer thin. Many did not accept the Treaty and in 1925 Hindenburg was elected President. He was a supporter of the Kaiser. This indicated the true feeling of many.'

'Germany was so dependent on American loans and was still paying reparations and so it suffered acutely. The Weimar constitution with its careful balance of power made firm and decisive action by the government very difficult. This allowed strong opposition from groups such as the Nazis.'

e.g. 'Röhm wanted to merge the SA with the army and take control. Hitler needed the support of the army to carry out his plans. This was a threat to his control.'

'Röhm wanted a second revolution to put socialist policies into practice. Many industrialists thought this programme looked too much like Communism. Hitler did not want to upset these industrialists.'

'Hitler no longer needed the SA as he had the SS, his own personal bodyguard. He was embarrassed by the continued violence of the SA.'

'Spectacular rallies were held.'

'Opposition was removed by the Gestapo.'

Level 3 Explains agreement OR disagreement [3–5]

Level 4 Explains agreement AND disagreement [5–7]

e.g. 'Hitler realised the importance of propaganda. He used different methods to put across a limited range of ideas time and time again and ensured other ideas gradually disappeared. Propaganda was organised by Goebbels who got the message across through cheap radios and loudspeakers. Spectacular rallies were held to show the strength of Germany and to encourage patriotism. The Germany people were indoctrinated.'

'Hitler set up a police state in order to remove opposition to the Nazis. The police had powers to do what they wanted. The SS was responsible for carrying out racial policies of the Nazis. One unit was responsible for concentration camps. The Waffen-SS were special regiments which fought alongside the regular army. The Gestapo was the secret police. Their job was to search out opponents. They used informers to uncover any attempts to organise opposition. They could arrest citizens on suspicion and send them to concentration camps without trial or explanation. They sought information from informers.'

Level 3 Explains how [4–7]

e.g. 'The October Manifesto gave Russian people basic rights such as freedom of speech and the right to form political parties. The Tsar issued the October Manifesto which promised that elections would be held and a parliament called the Duma established. This was what the middle classes wanted. They had become alarmed by the growing power and influence of the revolutionaries in the soviets and wanted the revolution to come to an end. By splitting his opponents, the Tsar was able to regain control.'

'Many of the Soviet leaders were arrested and exiled to Siberia. This led to serious street fighting in Moscow but these were crushed by the army.'

'The end of the war with Japan released troops who remained loyal to the Tsar. They dealt with disturbances and ruthlessly put down rebellions in the countryside.'

'The opposition was not co-ordinated. There was no one party which led the revolution and co-ordinated the strikes, Soviets and peasant uprisings.'

'By March 1917 food shortages led to widespread looting with thousands of workers and strikers participating in violent protests. This, together with discontent in the countryside, resulted in the loss of support for the Tsar.'

‘The Plans had spectacular economic results. Although not all the targets were met, every Soviet industry made spectacular advances. By 1940 the USSR was the world’s second largest industrial power.’

‘Even by 1932 the growth had been astonishing at the time of the Great Depression. Although oil was the only one to reach its target even the least successful had grown nearly 50%.’

‘In 1929 Soviet workers lacked many of the skills needed to carry out the Plans. The investment in education and training had, by 1937, created a skilled workforce.’

‘A new elite emerged. This included teachers, scientists, engineers, factory managers and skilled who were paid more than the ordinary workers and received extra benefits such as better housing. This higher standard of living went against Communist principles.’

Level 4 Explains agreement AND disagreement [5–7]

e.g. 'During the 1920s the stock market shared in the economic boom. Prices of shares rose sharply and people got used to the idea that share prices would always go up which encouraged speculation. People borrowed money to buy shares, often buying 'on the margin', then re-selling at a profit before having to pay the balance. Banks were happy to lend money but by the end of the 1920s the US economy was starting to decline. In October 1929 share prices dropped drastically with banks and firms going bust. Production fell as there was less money to spend as falling production meant unemployment.'

'Mass-production methods meant goods could be produced quickly and in large amounts. The market soon became saturated as American had all the consumer goods they needed and the demand for these items fell. Factories cut back production which meant reduced workforces and fewer people to buy consumer goods.'

'Because of the Crash the public had lost trust. He needed to get people to begin putting their money into banks to help the economy and so he had to ensure that the public felt secure in this.'

These new industries needed workers and so black workers were in demand. They needed to live in the cities near the new industry and so the pass-law enforcement was relaxed.'
'Black workers were paid very little and lived in squatter camps. The number of strikes increased and many white people were alarmed and more eager to support the Purified National Party.'
'The decision to join the allies had split the United Party. Hertzog, the Prime Minister and who had fought against the British as a Boer General, would not agree to fight on the side of the British. He was outvoted and resigned from politics. He was replaced as PM by Smuts.'

This was the Defence Campaign. Many protests took place over the summer including a stay-at-home day. Many were arrested and both blacks and whites killed in October. The government introduced new laws to deal with the problem. By the end of 1952 the campaign had run out of steam but the ANC's membership had risen from 7,000 to 100,000. They realised they needed a statement of aims and the freedom Charter was issued in June 1955.'

Level 3 Explains agreement OR disagreement [3–5]

Level 4 Explains agreement AND disagreement [5–7]

e.g. 'German rule was oppressive and cruel. The colonial authorities crushed any attempts at opposition or resistance by Namibians but did not stop the violation of Namibian communities. Murders, rapes and beatings were not uncommon. The actions of the traders were particularly inhumane.'

'Large areas of land had been taken away from the Namibian communities in the centre and the south and given to the increasing numbers of German settlers. In 1898 a German Decree ordered the setting up of reserves for Namibians. The Namibians were being treated like foreigners in their own country. In 1903 the construction of the railway to Otavi began and went right through the heartland of the Hereros. No notice was taken of the Namibian settlements. People had to move without compensation. Not only did they take a 20-kilometre strip of land on either side of the railway but they wanted complete control over the water in the area.'

'Cattle were a necessity of life for many Namibians. Without their land and cattle they could hardly survive. If they resisted the colonial authorities their cattle were taken by force. Traders also took cattle. The traders were aided by the German police. Cattle were often taken to pay a debt for goods bought from traders.'

(c) How successful were attempts to improve public health and housing between 1848 and 1900? Explain your answer.

Level 2 Identifies attempts [2–3]

e.g. 'Joseph Chamberlain improved Birmingham.'
 'Lever and Cadbury built model towns for their workers.'
 'The acts to improve housing failed to work as there was little money.'
 'The 1875 Act was compulsory.'

Level 3 Explains success OR lack of success [3–5]

Level 4 Explains success AND lack of success [5–7]

e.g. 'Chamberlain was mayor of Birmingham and he used powers under the Artisans Dwellings Act to clear away slums and build better houses. Sir Titus Salt built Saltaire with housing of a high standard, library and park whilst Lever and Cadbury built housing for their workers with tree lined streets and open spaces.'
 The Public Health Act of 1875 was a major step forward as it was compulsory. Sewers and drains were built, water supply controlled and refuse collected.
 'The Government began to take action on housing. The Torrens Act of 1868 said that landlords had to keep their property in good repair and the Artisans Dwellings Act of 1875 gave local authorities power to remove slums. The Housing of the Working Classes Act of 1890 said that local authorities could demolish slums and build council houses.
 'Improvements were often linked to epidemics rather than a necessity and particularly in relation to water supply where little improvement took place until the end of the century.'
 'Chamberlain's work did improve Birmingham but not enough houses were built to house everyone who had lost their home and those that were built were too expensive for the working classes.'
 'The work of other improvers only affected small areas and had little influence on the larger towns at first.'
 'The Public Health Act of 1848 made little difference because the Boards did not have the powers to force towns to improve conditions.'
 Progress was slow, money was not made available and when slums were pulled down houses were not built to replace them. Back-to-back housing continued to be built until 1909.'

 'More energy was being put into factory reform, Chartism and the ACLL.'

'The match-girls of Bryant and May went on strike because of low wages and dangerous working conditions. Annie Besant used a newspaper article to highlight the working conditions. This got public opinion on the side of the match-girls and their strike was successful in improving conditions.'

'The London dockers were paid low wages and not always guaranteed work. A claim for 6d an hour was rejected and a five week strike followed (1889). The strikers picketed the docks so that non-union members could not work. This brought the docks to a standstill with food rotting on the ships. Funds were raised on marches through London and an unexpected donation of £30,000 from Australia. After five weeks the dock owners listened to Cardinal Manning and the mediating committee and the dockers won.'

'The London gas workers threat to strike and this was enough to reduce the working day from 12 to 8 hours without loss of pay.'

'These strikes brought the formation of a number of large unions based on a whole industry including the railway workers and the miners. Total membership of the trade union movement doubled.'

'The National Agricultural Labourers' Union was founded in 1872 and quickly had 100,000 members. The landowners were against unions and organised a lock-out in 1874. Many went on strike against the lock-out but because of hardship gave up the struggle. The main problem was that many labourers lived in tied cottages and could be thrown out of their home. The NSLU collapsed.'

'Despite the work of the unions, the employers often held the upper hand because workers were frightened of losing their jobs. In the 1890s the economic situation became worse and the gas, dockers and the revived NALU folded.'
